Binder Capacity The capacity of your binder is determined by measuring the inside diameter of the ring configuration (as shown in the figures below). DO NOT USE THE SPINE WIDTH TO DETERMINE YOUR BINDER SIZE.

Round Ring

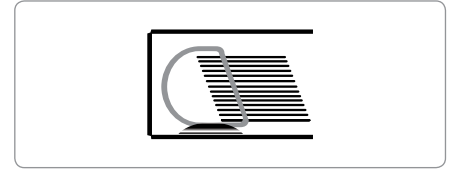

The traditional standard.

D-Ring

Practical “extra capacity” shape to hold more in the same ring size. Back cover mounting allows sheets to remain stationary when cover is opened and closed.

Angle D-Ring

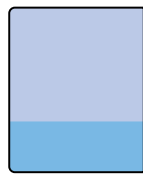

Even greater capacity than D-rings. Sheets follow contour of the slant which allows even bottom index tabs to be clearly visible.

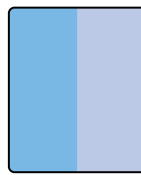

Recommended with triggers to open and close, but also available without triggers, to be pulled open. Most common sheet size - 8 1/2” x 11”. Other sizes readily available.

Silk Screening

The eye-catching fine art of silk screening allows unlimited colour selection. Multi-coloured graphics can utilize halftones and be artistically designed to bleed off the edges.

Hot Foil Stamping

Hot foil stamping is an economical and long lasting method of decorating vinyl products. An engraved metal die is heated on to pigmented foil. A popular choice for metallic gold and silver imprints.

Debossing / Embossing

Embossing or debossing is used for a subtle effect. Embossing is the process of compressing the background so that the image appears to be raised. Debossing is achieved by depressing the image into the vinyl. The most dramatic effect is achieved on expanded vinyls such as Castilian and Diablo.
